

TECHWORKERS MANAGED SERVICES SOLUTION

A Techworkers managed services solution gives you:

- Greater organizational flexibility and resilience
- Expanded scope of business opportunities
- Improved core capacity management
- Faster time to market for projects

Unburden your business and go for growth

Techworkers Managed Services allows your business to concentrate on its core competencies, take on projects it would normally not have the bandwidth to accommodate, and deliver more for your clients. It allows you to scale up your business without making a substantial commitment to capex or opex increases.

Our experts will assess your business model and deliver whatever additional technical and human expertise you require to reach your goals, monitored by strict metrics, whatever the scale of the challenge.

You can trust us to take a statement of work and build a team that will meet the project's needs. We can then run the entire operation on your behalf, if need be. The personnel we provide can work in-house or outside your organization, but are not offshored.

Once the project is complete, you can integrate the team we have helped you build into your business, or take the commitment entirely in-house. Whichever route you go down, you have the ability to do more with less, and our expertise helps guarantee everything gets done entirely to your specifications.

Stay in control while Techworkers takes on any task

Techworkers ensures that you can offload tasks, roles and projects while remaining completely in charge. Our Managed Services Solution consolidates your non-core tasks, groups them and manages them while giving you a dashboard view of the metrics and optimization improvements.

The work we have done on projects from six to 18 months has always stayed within the specifications laid out by our clients. An agile approach to teams, fully integrated with your business, helps guarantee the best results. And we always leverage the strategic value of the latestest in technological innovation.

The scope of projects we have undertaken is wide, and we have access to the talent and expertise to cover any area you may need, from asset management to data analytics.

Put your core team to work where they will make the most impact for your company, while we add to your capabilities to grow your business.
